

PRIVACY POLICY

In the normal course of using this website BlueStar only collects minor personally identifiable information about you such as your name, address, phone number, or e-mail only and not for any other reason or purpose than to provide you with the correct support and to keep you informed of software updates and any other useful related information.

BlueStar also obtains some types of non-personally identifiable information such as the Internet Service Provider you use to connect to the Internet, your browser type, or the type of computer operating system you use (Macintosh or Windows, for example). The information collected by BlueStar is used for the purpose of analysing patterns of use of this site only and enhancing the value of the site for other users.

In some cases, you may voluntarily provide personal information when you complete a specific form on the website. This information is used by BlueStar to assist us to respond to whatever query or other interest you may have expressed in relation to our services.

In addition BlueStar may combine this information with other users' information and review it in an aggregate form to understand the types of individuals who use the site, raise particular types of questions or express particular types of interest for 'statistical purposes'. If and 'only if' you have requested it, your email address may be added to a BlueStar mailing list.

In all other cases information such as your email address will only be used for the declared purpose. Neither your email address nor any other personally identifiable information will be passed to any third parties for any purposes whatsoever.

Although we take all reasonable steps to validate links and our comments, such comments and links are for information only and do not represent any undertakings as to the availability, merits or behaviour of any site or organisation. BlueStar is a site that can be fully trusted with your data. We are totally opposed to Spam in any form.

BlueStar uses one Google Tracking Code for the sole purposes of improving Google Ad Words advertising and business sales only. We use this tracking code to determine key words and sales made from the Google search network. This information is solely used to determine which ads and keywords are working.